

Buying Mobility Equipment with your Home Care Package

Do you still want to live at home, but need a little help? A government-subsidised home care package offers support ranging from domestic assistance and clinical services to the purchase of mobility equipment, all with the goal of making living at home as easy and comfortable as possible.

Many people aren't aware that they can use their home care package to buy mobility equipment that helps them stay at home longer and perform daily tasks. But before we look at this in more detail, let's go through some commonly asked questions about home care packages.

What is a Home Care Package?

A home care package is a coordinated package of care and services, designed to help you live independently in your own home for as long as you can. Your home care provider will work with you to:

- choose care and services that best meet your needs and goals
- manage your care and services.

Am I eligible?

You may be eligible for a home care package if you are:

- an older person (usually 65+ or 50+ for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people) who needs coordinated services to help you stay at home
- a younger person with a disability, dementia or other special care needs that are not met through other specialist services.

You need to have a face-to-face assessment of your care needs to find out if you're eligible.

How much funding can I get?

The total cost of a home care package is made up of:

- what you need to pay (your contribution)
- what the Australian Government pays (the subsidy).

The Australian Government pays a different subsidy amount for each level of home care package. This amount is paid to the home care provider you choose.

There are four levels of home care packages:

- Level 1: Basic care needs - $9,000 pa
- Level 2: Low level care needs - $15,750 pa
- Level 3: Intermediate care needs - $34,250 pa
- Level 4: High level care needs - $52,000 pa

*Figures current as at April 2021. The maximum government contribution increases each year.

What can I use my home care package for?

Some of the things you can access under a home care package include:

- Assistive technology such as power wheelchairs & mobility scooters
- Aids and equipment directly associated with your care needs
- Personal care including help dressing, showering or bathing
